

The cases are conducted almost exclusively by the judge.

The clerk calls the names of the parties in the case. He calls them loud because he must, and they come to the bar. The judge repeats each name loudly as he goes over the file and he identifies each girl. That may be part of court procedure, but any man who has admired any girl as she goes up before the judge is quite able to accost her by her name when she leaves the court.

It is not that the judge is unable to ask his questions or call the names of exploited women in a low voice. Once in a great while I have heard him lower his voice. But not often.

In the next story we will take up some individual cases of exploited women.

MERELY COMMENT

Jake Loeb's licked again.

Appellate court knocked out Jake's rule to keep school teachers out of the Federation.

It's about time for Jake to go 'way back and sit down.

The school board is no place for the likes of Jakey.

That was SOME labor parade Monday.

Ought to make Hart, Shaffner & Marx feel good.

And it ought to make other employers see that it pays to be decent.

Hope Cyrus McCormick of the Harvester trust saw that parade.

They say he's a Christian on Sundays.

Did T. R. submarine the Sherman boom?

Time somebody punctured that favorite son-of-a-gun stuff.

BITS OF NEWS

Washington.—Chevy Chase military camp, where society women are learning hospital work, etc., is very military, but that doesn't explain the neguees of pink, trimmed in swans-down, etc., spied by visitors.

CHICAGO BRIEFS

Arrangement for refinancing of and change of control of Sulzberger & Sons Co. completed. Administrative headquarters being transferred from New York to Chicago.

Man who said he was Edgar Butler, owner of poolroom, 3136 S. State, chased from Louis Selig's saloon, 31st and Federal, by bulldog as he was holding up 13. Captured.

Investigation of tuberculosis cases in every Cook co. town to be made.

Coroner's jury acquitted P. H. Dignan, contractor, charge of murder. Dignan killed G. H. Hammond, business agent excavators' union. Self defense.

Burglars got watches from flats of Mrs. Freda Neddermeyer, Harold Fossett and Mrs. May Coleman, 2464 Washington Blvd.

Merchants, N. Clark st., Wellington to Addison, holding "dress-up week."

Judge Tuthill will vacate his verdict that Lord Bacon, not Shakespeare, wrote Shakespeare plays. Will probably be new trial before Judge Smith.

Wife of Berthold Singer, Spain's consul to Chicago, underwent operation, Michael Reese hospital.

Masonic Temple buffet is no more. The Temple has gone dry, refusing to permit renewal of lease for saloon.

"Roosevelt's criticism out of office and Roosevelt's action in office don't gee," said Gov. Dunne, asking why T. R. did not increase army and navy while president.

John Fay, on trial for robbery while armed, swung on jaw of Ass't State's Att'y O. P. Lightfoot and knocked him down. Jury sentenced Fay from 1 year to life.

Francis D. Connery, former city clerk, now comptroller of sanitary district, sued for $5,000 by W. H. Kaminski. Charges false arrest.

Gladys Palmer, 19, Oak Pk., smashed intercollegiate girl's record by throwing baseball 217 feet, 6 inches at Wisconsin "U" meet.